The Dynamic Classroom

FOR BLENDED TEACHING AND STUDENT-CENTERED LEARNING

The greatest shift in classroom design focus has seen emphasis moving to the pupils, as opposed to the teacher. Education commentators suggest that this is to place greater emphasis on learning, rather than teaching. This has led to the modern concept of the 'dynamic classroom', which features flexibility, adaptability and a changing of layout depending on the topic or activity at-hand.

MOVING TO STUDENT CENTERED LEARNING

- Knowledge taught by student involvement.
- Student participation is more active.
- Instead of leading with authority, partner in learning.
- Assess with quizzes and feedback and less so by grading.
- Focus on a deeper understanding and not so much right and wrong.
- Test with multi-dimensionally assessments.
- Shift the culture to collaborate and support from compete to be independent.

Dynamic Classroom 3D Perspective View

TEACHING STYLES

- Direct Instruction, Teacher centred, 1-way presentations
- Coach style, showing knowledge with activities and demonstrations
- Activity style, Promote self learning, self actualization & critical thinking
- Group style, Peer activities & feedback
- Blended style, A Hybrid of teacher's personality, students' interest and needs

LEARNING STYLES

Improve student learning and engagement for everyone:

- Visual
- Auditory

Nook Huddle Pod

SMALL IMPROMPTU CHATS AND MEETINGS DRIVE IDEAS & INNOVATION

Complimenting meeting rooms with flexible huddle solutions allows more smaller powerful get-togethers to take place.

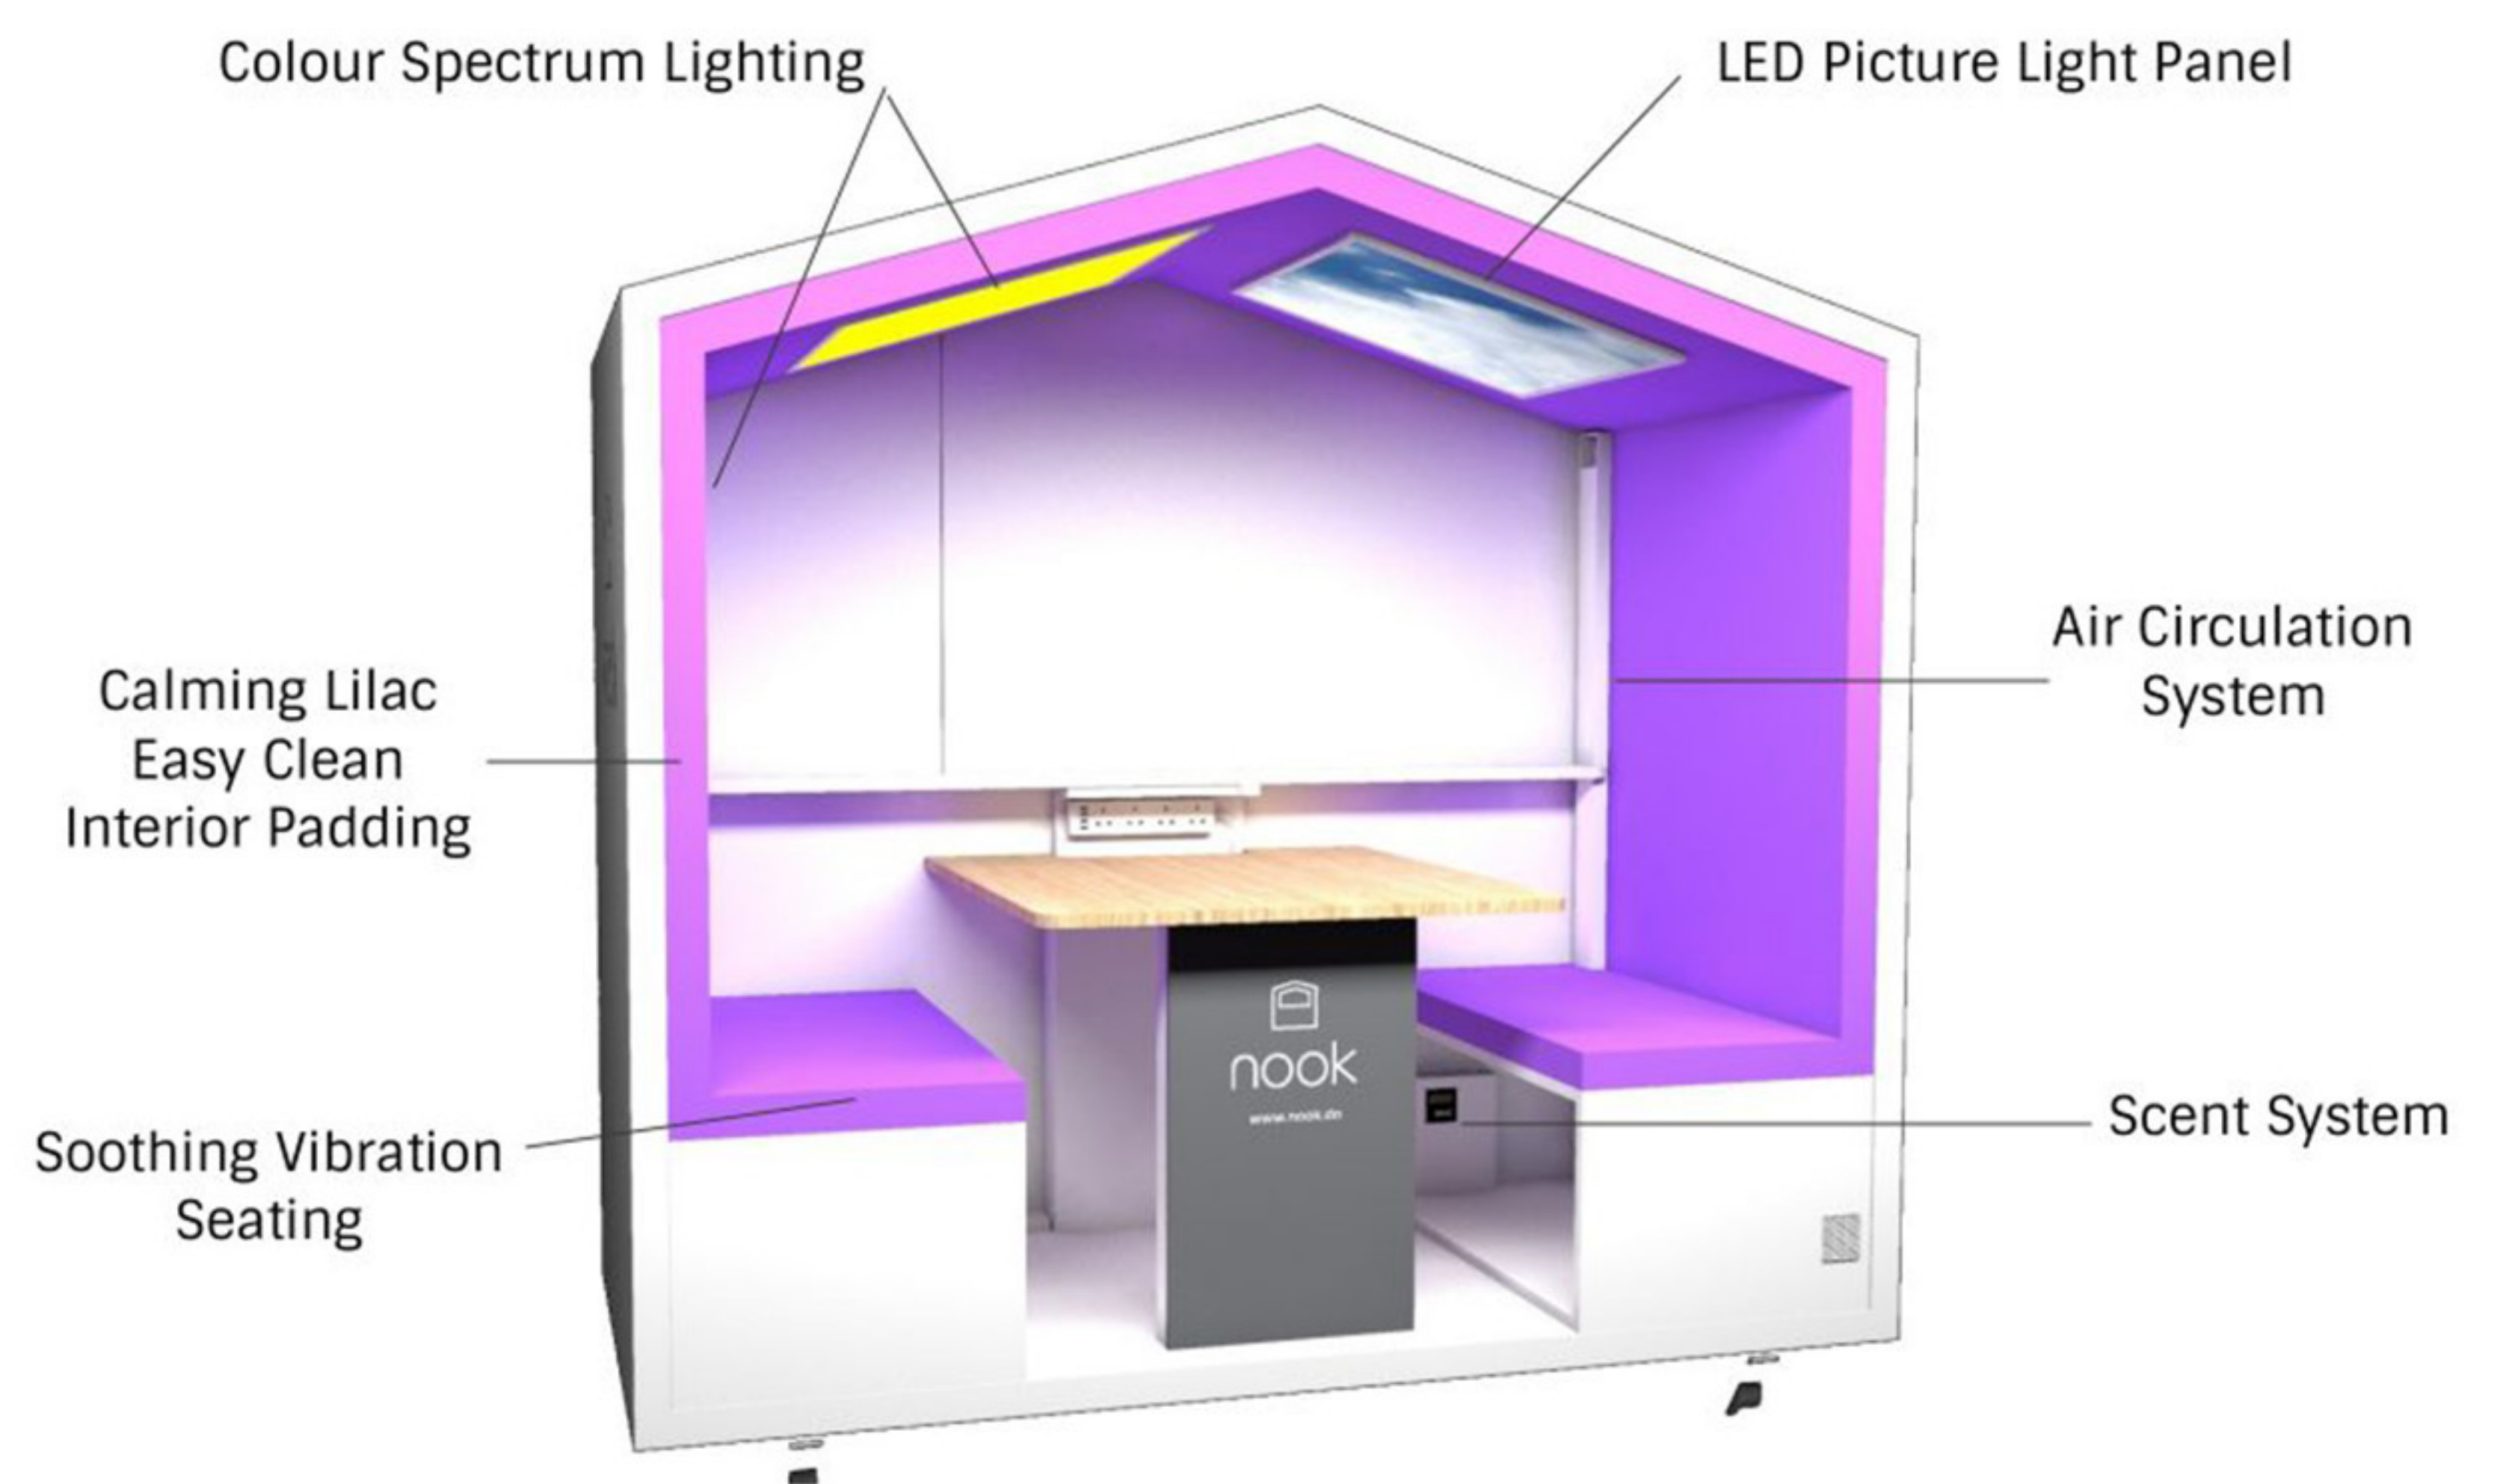

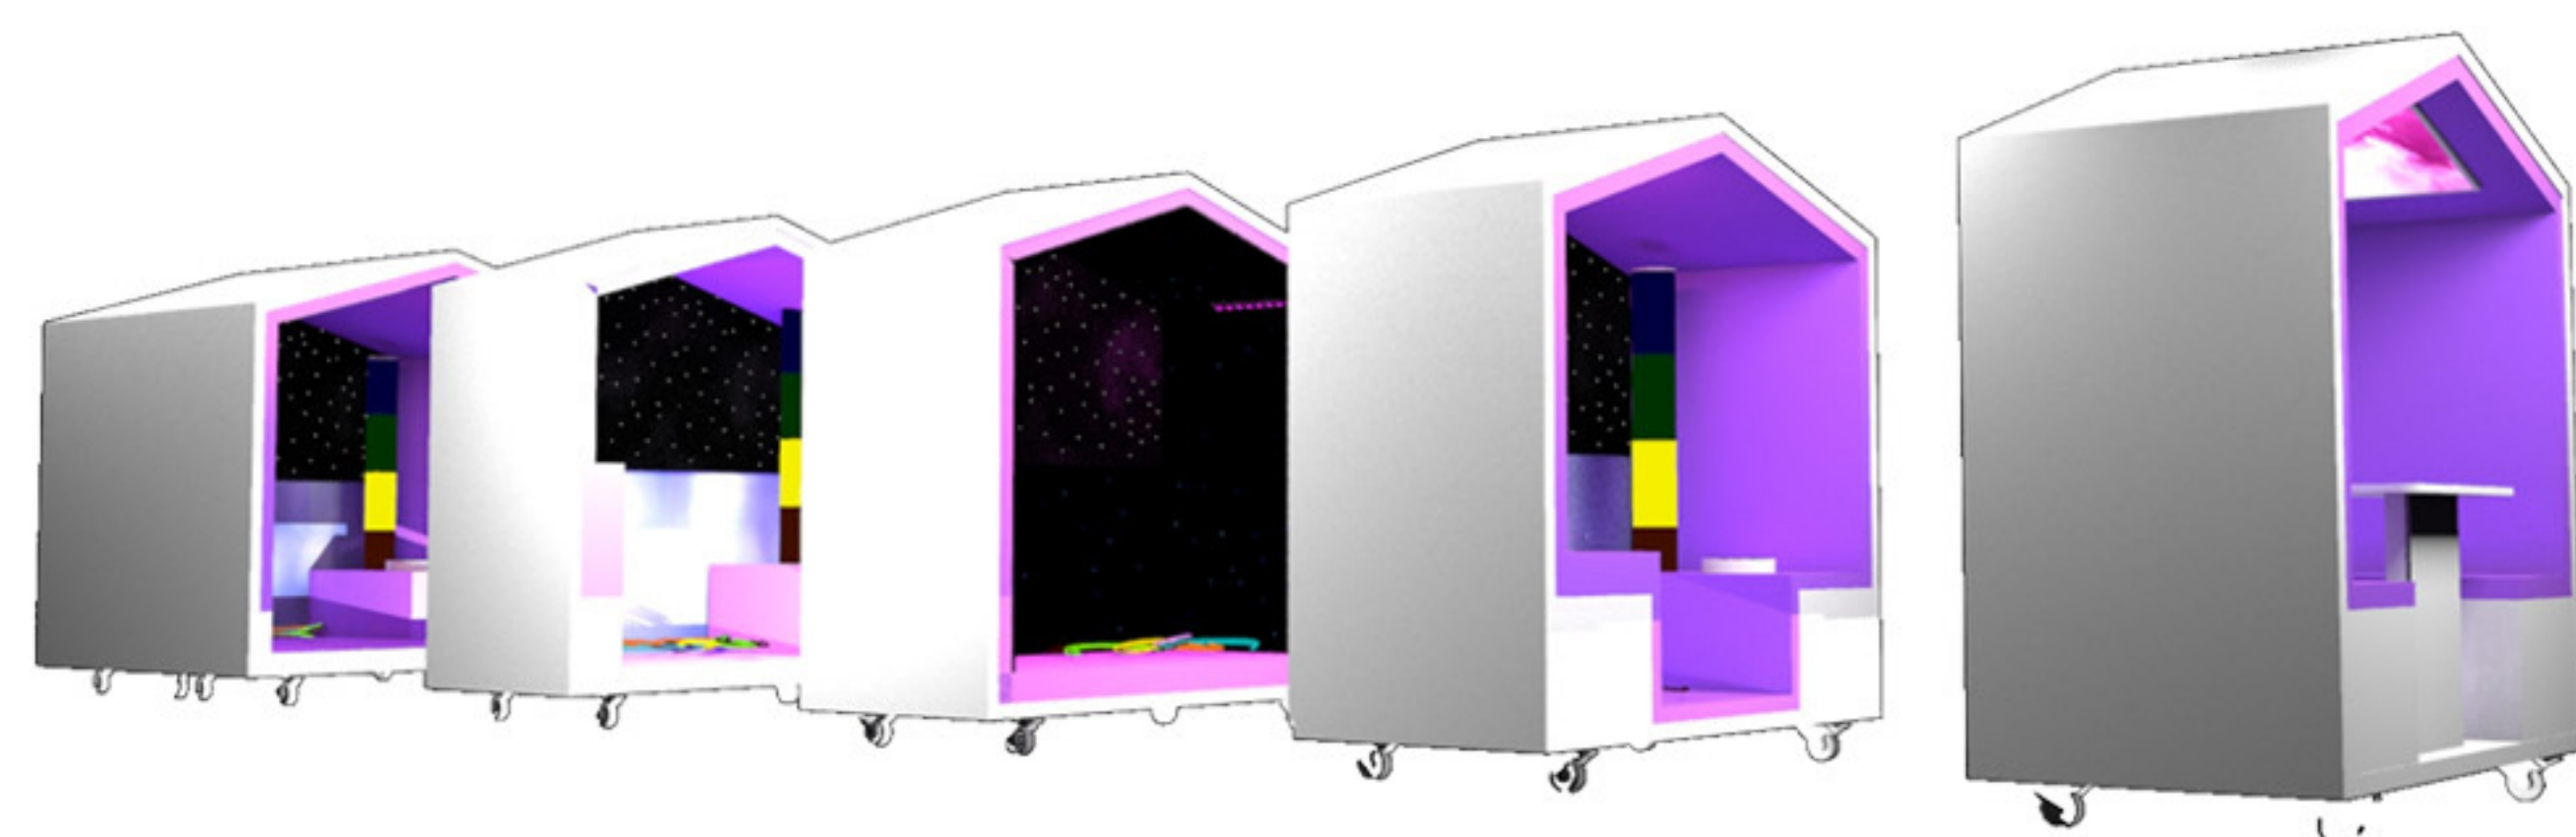

Nook Huddle pods take people out of the spotlight so they can re-set themselves without feeling self-conscious. They are remarkably quiet inside, without cutting a person off from the environment, and they allow personalisation of the lighting, which is a vital tool for helping neurodiverse brains to settle.

MODULARITY ADDS MEANINGFUL VALUE

Starting with 1 Nook or many, you will appreciate the ability to add or remove elements over time. Moving your Nook to a window - remove the rear wall. We launch a new accessory? It will fit.

CIRCULAR DESIGN IS BETTER FOR PLANET AND PROFITS

Its not enough to make a thing recyclable, we design responsibly so that Nooks can be upgraded or repaired easily, and only then, recycle efficiently. That builds a better total cost of ownership (TCO).

IT STARTED IN OFFICES, NOW THEY HELP EVERYWHERE

Our first customers were small companies and coworking spaces, then Science Parks got involved. Now Nooks are used in schools, hospitals, event venues, household names and even in a church.
